The kinds of personal information we use

We use the following different kinds of personal information about you:

- Personal details such as your full name, current and previous addresses, nationality, length of residency in the UK, date of birth and estimated retirement age, telephone numbers, e-mail addresses and passport, driving licence or National Insurance details;
- Details of your employment circumstances, financial details (such as information about your assets, liabilities, income and expenditure) and credit history;
- Bank account details (Account Number and Sort Code);
- Information passed on by Law Enforcement Agencies;
- Any information which you or a co-borrower provide to us regarding your family, lifestyle and other circumstances (provided always that the information is relevant to the administration of your account);
- Transactional details regarding your accounts with us; and
- We may sometimes collect data regarding your health. However, the law affords special protection to this type of personal data (which is designated 'special category data') and we will only collect it where we have a good reason to do so and the law allows.

Where we obtain your data from

Much of the personal data we collect will be provided directly by you when you apply for our products and services or when you communicate with us during the course of your relationship with us. We will also generate payment and transaction data as a function of administering your loan.

Where you have taken out (or have applied for) a loan jointly with another person, or if you are a director of a corporate borrower we may have obtained your personal information from a co-borrower or a fellow director. Similarly, where you have authorised a third party to transact on your account, we may obtain your personal information from such a third party.

If you have not authorised the relevant co-borrower, co-director or third party to provide your personal information to us, please let us know as soon as possible.

We sometimes also obtain data from the following third parties, with whom we work:

- Providers of valuation services;
- Asset managers, field agents and Law of Property receivers;
- Our Solicitors;
- Credit Reference Agencies;
- Fraud prevention agencies; and
- Law enforcement agencies or government agencies (e.g. HMRC).

In addition, we may also collect information about you which can be obtained via open data sources and public records (e.g. the electoral register and information openly available via the internet), although we will only do this where it is necessary for the performance of the mortgage contract (e.g. to help us trace you where you have moved house) or where we have a legitimate interest in doing so to enable us to administer your loan, establish the value and condition of our mortgage security or to collect debts which we are owed. See below under the section “How the law protects you” regarding the grounds on which we use your data.

How we use your data

We use your personal information in the following ways:

- to deliver our products and services to you and manage our business relationship with you;
- to assess your application for a loan (or other credit related transaction, such as an application to be added to the loan of an existing customer, or an application to vary our security) (see below for further details);
- to provide advice to you (where applicable);
- to identify you when you contact us;
- to manage your payments;
- to administer your account (including managing fees, charges, interest and other transactions on the account; and collecting payments which have become due. Payment collection may involve reviewing your account/personal data and contacting you to arrange payment or to discuss your situation);
- to detect, report, and prevent money laundering and financial crime;
- to obey laws and regulations which apply to us;
- to respond to enquiries and complaints which you make;
- to contact you where we need to inform you of changes to the way in which we administer your account, or to remind you of issues relating to the account;
- to meet contractual obligations which we have to third parties in connection with the administration of your account;
- to manage our business in an efficient and proper manner, including the management of our financial position, our resources, the risks to which we are exposed and the way in which we arrange our internal operations; and
- to provide you with relevant marketing information regarding our products and services.

There are further details below regarding situations where we share your personal data with a person or company outside our group.

Applications for credit

Where you have submitted an application for a loan (including an application for a 'Decision in Principle') or an application for a 'change of parties' transaction, we will send your data to credit reference agencies and fraud prevention agencies. For a 'Decision in Principle' application, this will leave a 'soft footprint' on your credit file (which is not visible to other lenders) whereas for all other applications, our search will leave a footprint which is visible to other lenders. Further details in relation to credit reference agencies and fraud prevention agencies can be found in the Appendix.

We will also use automated processing (see below) as part of our decision making processes for all applications for a loan.

Where you commence but do not complete an application, or where your application does not proceed to a contract being concluded (or varied) then, we will still retain such personal data as you have submitted to us in accordance with our data retention policy (see 'Retention Periods' section below).

By submitting your application to us, you have confirmed that you agree to our use of your data in accordance with this Privacy Notice.

Automated processing

As part of the processing of your personal data, decisions may be made by automated means. We may automatically decide that you pose a fraud or money laundering risk if:

- (i) our processing reveals your behaviour to be consistent with that of known fraudsters or money launderers; or is inconsistent with your previous submissions; or
- (ii) you appear to have deliberately hidden your true identity.

Where you have applied for a 'decision in principle' as part of your loan application, automated processing (also known as 'profiling'), which uses logic relating to your credit history and other financial details, will be used to assess your application.

You have rights in relation to automated decision making (including a right to object). If you want to know more please see below, under "Your rights" or please contact us.

Consequences of processing

If we, or a fraud prevention agency, determine that you pose a fraud or money laundering risk, we may refuse to provide the services and financing you have requested, or we may stop providing existing services to you.

A record of any fraud or money laundering risk will be retained by the fraud prevention agencies and may result in others refusing to provide services, financing, or employment to you. If you have any questions about this, please contact us on the details below.

How the law protects you

The Regulation says that we may only use your personal data where we have a lawful basis for doing so. We use your data on the following bases:

- because it is necessary to enter into, manage, perform and fulfil our contract with you (or to carry out, at your request, steps prior to entering into a contract with you). This ground ("the contractual ground") applies to most of the ways in which we use your personal data;
- because you have consented to a specific use of your data. This applies in relation to any "special categories" of data which we collect from you. ("Special category" data is sensitive information relating to matters such as health issues, which are given special protection under the law). It can also apply when we send you marketing material with your consent and this is not sent for another reason, such as to fulfil our contract with you, or because we have a 'legitimate interest' (see below). This also applies where you provide consent for your data to be passed to selected third parties to provide services to you (such as independent mortgage advice);
- because it is necessary to comply with a legal obligation. This applies (in addition to the contractual ground) to circumstances where we disclose your information to a public body (such as the police) or a private person (such as a Trustee in Bankruptcy) who is empowered to demand that we provide it. It also applies (in addition to the contractual ground) to our identity verification checks and account monitoring activity (including call recording), which is needed in order to comply with financial crime legislation and in order to meet financial regulation;

- because it is necessary for the purposes of our own legitimate interests. This applies in addition to the contractual ground to many of the ways in which we use your data. It also applies to 'higher level' activities which are not strictly necessary to the performance of our contract with you, such as reviews, audits, analysis and reports (including the production of financial and statistical information) which are undertaken as part of our legitimate interest in arranging the sound internal management and governance of our business. We might have a legitimate interest to send you marketing material where we identify a business or commercial reason to do so and we believe it does not conflict unfairly with your own interests.

It also applies to circumstances where we disclose your data to:

- a third party (such a regulator or joint borrower) because we need to do so to defend our rights or standing;
- an investor (who has funded our acquisition of your loan, in accordance with our legitimate interest of financing our business, managing our risks and offering a 'legal title holder' service to clients);
- a company to whom an investor has outsourced delivery of services to provide insight of their investment (e.g. auditing);
- a credit reference agency (in accordance with our legitimate interest in maintaining membership of the credit reporting community);
- a company to whom we have outsourced the delivery of some or all of our services (in accordance with our legitimate interest in managing our business efficiently);
- our auditors/accountants; or
- anyone who takes, or is considering taking, a transfer, assignment, charge or other disposal of all or part of our interest in your mortgage, or who takes, or is considering taking, a transfer of all or some of our obligations under the mortgage. This is in accordance with our legitimate interest in complying with contractual obligations which we owe to investors who have funded our acquisition of your loan and who are seeking to transfer their investment; and in accordance with our wider legitimate interest in financing our business, managing our risks and offering a 'legal title holder' service to clients

Third parties with whom we share your data

We may share your data with the following recipients:

- Companies to whom we outsource the delivery of some or all of our services;
- Investors (who have funded our acquisition of your loan);
- Companies who our investors have outsourced delivery of their services;
- specialist mortgage distributors, including mortgage clubs, with whom your chosen intermediary interacts in connection with a mortgage application submitted to us;
- Agents acting on our behalf to assist in managing the account or collecting money owed (e.g. field agents, tracing agents, property valuers, Law of Property receivers (who are appointed by us but legally act as your agent) and asset managers);
- Credit reference agencies: In connection with a change of parties application and as part of the ongoing administration of your account (including payment performance reporting). See Appendix for further details;
- Our insurers;
- Fraud prevention agencies: In connection with a change of parties application and as part of our ongoing financial crime and anti-money laundering monitoring and reporting activity. See Appendix for further details;
- Regulators (such as the Financial Conduct Authority, the Financial Ombudsman Service and the Information Commissioner) where they have asked for information or it is reasonable for us to provide it in defence of our position;

- Public bodies (such as law enforcement agencies and HMRC); and private persons (such as a Trustee in Bankruptcy) who are empowered at law to require us to provide information;
- Joint borrowers on your account and third parties with whom you have authorised us to communicate;
- Solicitors who act on our behalf;
- Our auditors/accountants;
- Third parties who assert rights in relation to our security property, where such disclosure is necessary to defend our legal rights; and
- Anyone who takes, or is considering taking, a transfer, assignment, charge or other disposal of all or part of our interest in your mortgage, or who takes, or is considering taking, a transfer of all or some of our obligations under the mortgage.

Transfers outside of the UK and European Economic Area ('EEA')

Where we send your personal data outside of the UK and EEA, including where we may send your personal data to investors (as described above), we will always ensure adequate measures are in place to safeguard it and to ensure you can exercise your rights effectively.

Where we do so, it is possible that they, or firms acting on their behalf, may transmit the data onwards to an entity outside of the UK and EEA (for example, a member of their group based outside of the UK and EEA).

Retention periods

Where you commence but do not complete an application, or where your application does not proceed to a contract being concluded (or varied) then we will keep your data for 4 years from the date the application was made. We may hold your data for longer if we cannot delete this for legal or regulatory purposes.

All information will be retained for as long as you are a customer of Zephyr Homeloans.

When you are no longer a customer we will keep your data only for as long as it is needed to respond to any questions or complaints, to demonstrate that we have treated you fairly and to comply with the legal and regulatory requirements to which we are subject. This usually means 7 years after your mortgage account is closed; however, we may hold your data for longer if we cannot delete this for legal or regulatory purposes.

Where you fail to provide personal data which we have requested

If you fail to provide all of the information which we ask for as part of an application for credit (for example, by way of a 'change of parties' application or an application to vary to your loan contract), we will usually discontinue your application, although there may be cases in which we are willing to make an exception.

Your rights

Subject to any overriding legal obligations, requirements and/or exemptions, you have the right to:

- be informed about the processing of your personal data;
- withdraw your consent to the use of your personal data, where that use is undertaken on the basis of consent (see above);
- object to our processing of your personal data where it is based exclusively on our legitimate interests (see above) such as where we rely on our own legitimate interests to provide you marketing information;
- request the restriction of the processing of your personal data;

- request receipt or transmission to another organisation, in a structured, commonly used and machine-readable format the personal data that you have provided to us (data portability); and

- upon applying to us in writing or by telephone, to obtain personal data held by us about you; and

Please note that we may ask you to provide a form of identification verification before we can give effect to any such request made by you.
